

PRESS RELEASE

12 February 2020

Ricardo recognized by FT as a leader in sustainability for third successive year

In its third annual rating of the UK's top management consultancies, the Financial Times has again identified Ricardo Energy & Environment as a leader in the area of 'sustainability' in its 'UK's Leading Management Consultants 2020' listing

The Financial Times identified Ricardo Energy & Environment as a company that is recommended for sustainability services based on comments made by clients and peers throughout industry. The rating reinforces the company's position as a leading consultancy in the environment and sustainability arena. Particular areas of growth for the company within this sector over the past year include supporting the preparation and implementation of clean air zones, development of net zero strategies for the public and private sector organisations and delivering innovation in the energy and water sectors.

"On behalf of the entire Ricardo Energy & Environment team I am delighted that our company has been recognized for the third successive year as a leader in the area of sustainability" commented Ricardo Energy & Environment MD Tim Curtis. "I would like to extend our thanks to our clients involved in the Financial Times survey as well as to all of our customers worldwide, for their continued support and confidence in Ricardo."

Ricardo's environmental consulting business boasts a broad client base that includes major corporates, national and local governments, energy, water and waste utilities, airports and a wide range of international agencies. The company operates a diverse multi-discipline practice structure, including teams working in air quality, climate change, energy, sustainable transport, corporate social responsibility, infrastructure and utilities planning, and scarce resource management.
